SALISBURY SPEAKS

In Defense of the War Between England and the Transvaal Republic.

Says the War is Justified--The Gold Mines Are Not the Object -- No Fear of Continental Interference -- Future of the Territory to Be Subjugated.

By Associated Press to the Journal. LONDON, Nov. 10.--At the Guildhall banquet last night, the Marquis of Salisbury, Lord Wolseley, Mr. Ritchie, Lord George Hamilton, Lord Halsbury, the lord chief justice, the Duke of Marlborough, and minor diplomats were present. Mr. Chamberlain was absent. The lord mayor proposed the "ministers" in a speech, in which he vigorously denounced "the arrogance of the invader," dwelling on the fact that Sir Alfred Milner, in spite of herculean exertions, was unable to "prevail with the overbearing corrupt oligarchy, therefore other of our champions have the business in hand."

The Toast to the Army.

Lord Wolseley said: "Every day applications are received from volunteers in all parts of the empire who wish to be sent to the front. I am proud of the sailors, soldiers and volunteers, who are among you. We have had work before us, for our foe is brave and it is no idle warfare in which we are engaged. When one reads of the work which our local forces in Natal have done in the past few weeks one must deem them worthy of standing side by side with the best regulars. "We at present have mobilized one army corps, consisting of 55,000 men, of whom 44,000 are already on the way to the cape. Today orders have been sent to mobilize another division and it called upon by the minister to mobilize another army corps, we are quite prepared to do so."

Lord Salisbury Speaks.

"For several years our relations with, and cordial feeling toward our kinsmen on the other side of the Atlantic have been constantly growing, and though neither we interfere in the affairs of their continent, nor they interfere in the affairs of ours, we feel we can now always look for sympathy and a fair hearing among those who share with us so vast a mission for the advancement of mankind. "But perhaps you think I am sanguine in saying that on the continent of Europe we have no hostility to fear. There is undoubtedly a certain acidity of tone among the writers for the foreign press, but I do not believe that the trend of this opinion affects the people of foreign nations. I am quite certain it does not affect their governments, and I will say that I have noted, as one of the cheering symptoms of the present time, the happy relations existing between the United States and ourselves (cheers), and the sympathy with which we watch their approach to the same great problems that we ourselves have had to solve. That is not to say that I do not feel the greatest sympathy with their late antagonist, the kingdom of Spain. We entertain the highest hope that out of that war a blessing in disguise will grow, an abundant growth of civilization and culture in that ancient and most interesting monarchy.

The War With the Boers.

The great subject that interests all of us, undoubtedly, is the war adorned with so many splendid feats of heroism and skill, but saddened by heavy losses. I have great difficulty in dealing with the war, and if I attempted to deal with the future I should be undertaking a task in prophecy from which the hardest would shrink. "It is not to right say that there was not adequate military preparation. The evil dates farther back. It dates to unfortunate arrangements in 1881 and 1884, by which we deliberately permitted a community, obviously hostile, to enjoy the unbounded, unlimited right of accumulating munitions of war against us. Year after year there was an accumulation of munitions which could only be directed against us. Hampered by these arrangements, it was impossible for us to avoid the interval of trial and danger necessary to intervene between the moment when war was declared and the moment when our forces could accept contest and appear upon the field. No More Retirements. "That interval has nearly passed. Our troops are beginning to arrive. Foreign nations have complimented us upon the calmness with which we have received the intelligence of occasional checks. Whatever strategy might be, we are well aware that the beginning of our conflict with the Boers must be marked by a retirement of our troops from positions they are not strong enough to occupy. It is necessary that we should wait for sufficient reinforcements. I do not attempt to forecast the future. I only say that my faith in the British soldier is unbounded, and I am deeply gratified to feel that he is in the vigorous, sagacious hands of General Buller. Replies to the French. "Regarding the future, I will only deprecate some very strange assertions that I see occasionally in the Continental press. Only the other day I saw it asserted, not by a chance writer but by a man who has been a member of a French government, that this war had for its object the gratification of the lust of greedy lords, who desired a partition among themselves of the gold and diamonds of the Transvaal. Now I beg to assure this gentleman that her majesty's cabinet has not had a farthing from the Transvaal or from any other gold fields. There is the Yukon, about which there is no contest. If there had been any chance of our gaining advantages, these Yukon gold fields should have yielded something, but I appeal to my friend Lord Hamilton, to know if the cabinet ever received a farthing from them. [Laughter.] No Advantage to England. "I go further. England as a whole, would have had no advantage from the possession of gold mines except as her government conferred the blessing of good administration upon those engaged in the industry. All industry breeds commerce and all commerce flourishes better under her government than any other regime in the world. But that is the limit of our interest. "What we desire is equal rights before all men of all races and security for our fellow-subjects and our empire. The hour for asking by what means these results can be obtained is not yet come, but these are the objects and the only objects we seek. We do not allow any other consideration to cross our path.

Interference Not Feared. "I have seen it suggested that other powers will interfere with this country and in some form or other dictate to those who are concerned in it as to what its spout had been. Don't let any man think it is in that fashion the conflict will be concluded. We shall have to carry it through ourselves, and the interference of anybody else will have no effect upon it. (Cheers). In the first place, because we would not accept the interference, and in the second place, because we are convinced that there is no such idea in the mind of any government in the world.

AN ILLINOIS MAN APPOINTED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.--The President has appointed Jos. W. Fifer, of Illinois, a member of the interstate commerce commission vice Calhoun, resigned.

Yukon Railroad Extension. SEATTLE, Nov.--The White Pass and Yukon railroad has purchased enough steel rails to extend its line from Lake Bennett to Clough, four miles below the White Horse Rapids. By June 1, the company expects to have the road in operation.

LAWTON IS ADVANCING

What Young, Bell and Mac Arthur are Doing -- Wheaton Rescues Spanish Prisoners

The Luzon Campaign.

By Associated Press to the Journal. MANILA, Nov. 10.--General Lawton advanced his column at San Jose yesterday to Caranigan. A strong force was put through on the Aligona route. Young captured yesterday considerable of the Cuban arsenal property in transit north. He was fighting opposition but his advance is not much impeded.

Bell with six officers and 12 privates struck a hundred insurgents in the mountains west of Malabacat. He captured, killing and wounding nineteen, captured six, and secured thirty Mauser rifles. The railroad from Angeles to Bamban is destroyed.

Mac Arthur will take up the advance to Talaric tomorrow. Wheaton reports twenty-eight Spanish prisoners rescued. Three-hundred insurgent recruits escaped from the enemy during the battle of San Fabian.

Wheaton says everything is favorable to carrying out successfully the instructions and that the co-operation of the navy is complete.

Sudden Change of Base. WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.--Great interest is felt in the war department over Aguinaldo's sudden change of base northward from Talaric to Bayombas, about sixteen miles distant.

The most interesting feature of the news situation is that Aguinaldo has been forced out of the Tagalo country into a region where Tagalo is not spoken and where the mountains are filled with negroes and other savage tribes hostile to the Tagalos.

It is expected that as soon as Aguinaldo shows a disposition to move down the valley toward the China sea, that warships and gunboats will be sent around the northern end of the island to cut off his escape.

ANOTHER BRITISH LOSS

Regiment Reported Decimated With 600 Killed and Wounded

By Associated Press to the Journal.

LONDON, Nov. 10.--Another rumor, emanating from Amsterdam, Holland, sources says a British regiment was decimated Friday, by the Free Staters, and six hundred British killed or wounded, and 300 horses captured.

From the Consularship.

By Associated Press to the Journal. LONDON, Nov. 10.--The war office has received following: "Cape Town, Tuesday.--Have received from White today the following: "Bombardment of Ledy-smith by heavy guns continues daily. No serious harm is being done."

British Movements.

By Associated Press to the Journal. LONDON, Nov. 10.--With the arrival at Capetown of the British transports Roslyn Castle and Moor, to be followed by a continuous succession of troop-laden ships, the real campaign in South Africa may be said to have begun.

Buller's first move will be to relieve White. While the dispatch of White shows the beleaguered garrison holding its own yesterday, it is feared that the silence regarding what the British are really doing, in reply to the Boer guns, indicates that White is short of long range ammunition.
